Christmas Mood

by Asbjorn Lonvig

Last year I wrote two wishes on my wish list and sent it to Santa Claus, who in my tradition lives in Nuuk in Greenland. You might know his huge red mailbox in Nuuk.

He wrote back to me:

Ho,ho.

My son lives in Nuuk close to Santa's workshop, he e-mailed to me in November 2004, that Santa was still laughing.

1st wish was to have more than 250,000 views on my web site on one single day.

2nd wish was to have more than 1,000,000 views on my web site in one single week.

On 1st December I got mail.

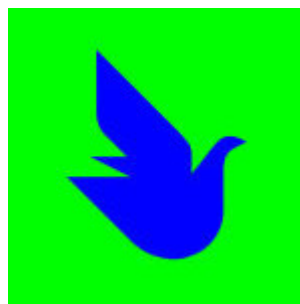

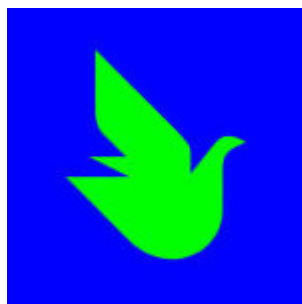

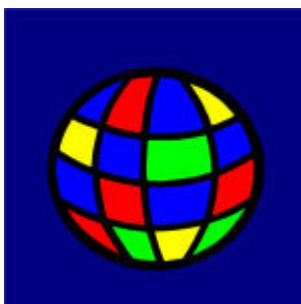

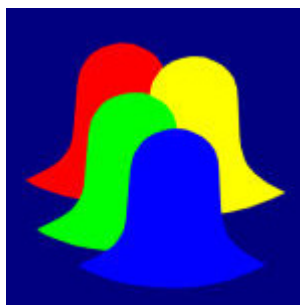

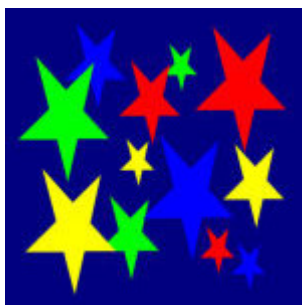

E-mail from my son in Nuuk.

Santa had stopped laughing.

See why.

Santa Claus had stopped laughing and had started smiling. He wrote to me: "Now that you have that many visitors, would you please help me delivering Christmas Gifts - I am so awful busy in the month of December". "Sure, Santa" I wrote back to him.

And here you have the Christmas Gift to you from Santa and me:

The Christmas 2004 Exclusive Selection
for the readers of Art News Artblog etc.

There are 4 Christmas Parcels for You:

An online Christmas exhibition of Christmas 2004 Exclusive Selection.

A decoration Christmas mini-mini-poster to this exhibition for download and print.

Christmas Art Prints of all exhibited art works for download and print.

A Christmas slide show presenting the above art works and 4 more Christian motifs from Exclusive Selection Indonesia.

Or see Colorful New article.

Santa Claus told me, that the Parcels had to be delivered all over the world. A few days ago Santa and I was on a test flight with his sleight and reindeer - with Rudolph in the front of course. We stopped in Paris. Santa landed beautifully on the roof of 18, Rue DROUOT - that is 18 DROUOT Street. I had told Santa nothing but Rue DROUOT was a side street to Rue Du Faubourg Montmartre.

And we opened my new exhibition in gallery DROUOT COTATION.

The French were gawping.

Because of my art?

Or are the French not used to Santa passing by?

See Colorful News on "Paris".

To all of you from Santa and Me
